

is doubtless the work of the same artist, and is the same bishop: it is a black marble square block excavated into a basin, placed upon a circular shaft, with four circular pillars at the corners, without bases, and having capitals of plain upright leaves; on the south and west sides are carved the Creation of Man, the Formation of Eve from the Rib of Adam, the Eating of the Forbidden Fruit, and the Expulsion from Paradise: in former times a cover was provided, which was required to be kept fast for fear of sorcery. The register dates from 1560. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelries of Froxfield and Steep annexed, joint annual value £1,140, with residence, tithes commuted at £680 per annum, for East Meon, in the gift of the Bishop of Winchester, and held by the Rev. Thomas C. Kemp, B.A., of Caius College, Cambridge; the Rev. John Godfrey Angley, M.A., of Trinity College, Dublin, Cambridge, and Oxford, the author of several works on theology and general literature, is the curate. There is a spacious National school for boys and girls; also Baptist and Independent chapels. Five almshouses for poor women have recently been erected by Mrs. Forbes, Bereleigh, in the

is lord of the manor. The principal landowners are J. D. Lewis, Esq., J. Bonham-Carter, Esq., M.P., Lord Hylton, W. Nicholson, Esq., M.P., of Basing Park, John C. Wyndham, Esq., Mr. Christmas, Mr. Weeks, &c. The soil is various; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, hops, and oats. The population in 1861 was 1,486; area, 11,242 acres.

LANGRISH is a tithing, a mile and a half north-east; RAMSDEAN, a tithing, 2 miles east; OXENBOURN, a tithing, a mile south-east; BORDON (or BORDEAN), a tithing, 2½ miles north; COOMBE, 2 miles south-west; RIPLINGTON, 2 miles west; and PEAK, 3½ north-west. On the Downs are many barrows, and on Old Winchester Hill is a camp.

Parish Clerk, Robert Smith, sen.
